Further Strategies — problem 14.21

A. Engel — Problem-Solving Strategies · 1998

The integers $1, 2, \ldots, n$ are placed in order, so that each value is either bigger than all preceding values or is smaller than all preceding values. In how many ways can this be done ?