Harder Geometrical Problems — problem 12.3.2.2

A. Engel — Problem-Solving Strategies · 1998

Can you cut a thin hole into a plane, which leaves it connected, so that a wire model of (a) a cube of edge 1 (b) a tetrahedron of edge 1 can be pushed through the hole. The hole must have negligible area, and the thickness of the wires must be negligible.